

Hide and Seek

Hey - I'm sure I had something to say
But it seems that it's drifted away
It never used to be so hard

My brain is playing hide and seek
And the waves of thought are fast
They're running away
They're determined not to be caught

And the wheel's not turning

I know I've seen their faces somewhere before
Give me time and I'll remember, I'm sure
If they're my children, something's wrong

And the wheel's not turning

In the past, I was strong
I'd support everyone
Now, my mind is receding
